

Dungeon Diaries

CONTRIBUTION

Hi welcome to “Dungeon Diaries”, a frank open forum about BDSM and Fetish Play. The goal here is to give you accurate information about the world of BDSM and Fetish to enhance your professional knowledge in dealing with Kinky Clients.

A little personal history, my involvement with BDSM and Fetish commenced in my late teens so you could say I am one Kinky Momma. A regular practitioner and devotee of many different forms of BDSM play; my absolute favourite (what really floats my boat) is Dominance and Submissive. Nothing sweeter than being in control of pleasures and pain. Apart from being a Mistress I also design and produce an exclusive range of kink related jewellery that I call Scandalous Gems.

Professionally I am known as “Lady Lilith” (btw according to Hebrew legend “Lilith” was Adam’s first wife who was cast down to hell because she would not submit to Adam’s control. She was the one who is said to be the Queen of the Demons LOL).

So maybe we start with one of the basics – what is BDSM? Well that question is not always easy to answer, looks like the abbreviation BDSM was first used in 1969, (funny sidenote the year I was born). The Oxford dictionary states that it is as an abbreviation used to describe “a type of sexual practice”.

As with everything in the world of kink one acronym can represent so much, to me these 4 letters actually represent 6 words –

B/D = Bondage & Discipline,
D/S = Dominance & Submission and finally,
S/M = Sadism & Masochism.

There is a huge amount of information available about each of these areas of play and we will talk further about these in upcoming Dungeon Diaries blogs.

If you have questions, comments or stories you feel comfortable sharing regarding anything to do with Kink, BDSM or Fetish Play please visit the Dungeon Diaries blog at <http://lilithsdungeondiaries.blogspot.com.au/>.

Until the next time we play stay safe and have fun.

