

The RhED Book Club

Ever belonged to a book club? They can be fun and they can be scary as everyone talks about what they thought of the book. Opinions always differ widely.

The number of books written about the sex industry continues to expand. Some books are written by people with experience in the industry, other books by people who have something to say about the industry.

RhED is going to do a book review each edition. RED editions will inform readers what book is being selected.

In RED#20 we are going to review Kate Holden's recent publication, The Romantic – Italian Nights and Days. Kate Holden's memoir In My Skin was about her experiences in the sex industry. The Romantic tells what happened next.

RhED welcomes readers who would like to read The Romantic and contribute to the review. If you are interested in following RhED's review of books and don't want to contribute, you can still read the book and be part of the Book Club, albeit from a distance.

Reader book review contributions can be emailed to sexworker@sexworker.org.au

You can use a working name or "anon".
